

James Edward Dolan

March 23, 2023

James Edward Dolan, age 91 of Moultonborough, New Hampshire, passed away in his home on Wyman Trail on March 23, 2023. Born in Bronx, New York to James Dolan and Marie Heisler on December 4, 1931. James is survived by his three sons, James Patrick Dolan married to Glynis Burke of Closter, NJ, John Peter Dolan of Hawthorne, NJ and Richard Neil Dolan of Fort Lee, NJ, and daughter-in-law, Kimberly Dolan (nee Anderson), of Westwood, NJ. Beloved grandfather to Justine Marie Cote, Colleen Jon Dolan, Meghan Teresa Dolan, Kathleen Bridget Dolan, Patrick James Dolan (deceased), Kayley Rose Giorgini, Sophia Marie Giorgini, Jillian Sandor (nee Dolan) and her husband Michael, John Douglas Dolan, Evelyn Marie Dolan, Christopher James Dolan Jr, Chloe Bella Dolan and Ava Rose Dolan. Cherished great grandfather to Robert, Ryan, and Lucas Sandor. Beloved brother to Carol Ann Dolan, Ronald Dolan, and Robert Dolan. Packy is also survived by several nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

James joins in heaven, his beloved wife, Rosemary (Mary), beloved children, Mary Rose, Kathleen, and Christopher, and beloved grandson, Patrick James.

James, (fondly, nicknamed Packy) exited this earth on his own terms for sure. He passed in his home in his favorite chair with a cup of coffee; likely, I'm sorry to say watching Fox News (LOL), with his little pug Bridget at his side.

James married the love of his life, Rosemary at the age of 21, on June 21, 1953. James and Rosemary left the Bronx after James completed his service in the US Navy as a Navy Corpsman 3 PO and crossed the GWB to the suburb of Westwood New Jersey. James and Rosemary raised six children together while enjoying a successful career in the motion picture industry through Local 52 IATSE as a gaffer.

Packy worked as Gaffer on several memorable films shot in New York City and on location. Wall Street 1987, Night in the city 1992, See-no Evil, Hear No Evil 1989, Author Author, 1982, Delirious 1991, Brighton Beach Memoirs 1986, Going in Style 1979, Eyewitness 1981, Without a Trace 1983, The Pope of Greenwich Village, 1984 Black Rain 1989, Fatal Attraction, 1987, Jacobs ladder, 1990, Turk, 182, Survivor,...to name more than a few. James had a relevant career both in television and in film.

At the age of 62, James retired, and he and Rosemary moved up to Moultonborough, New Hampshire. They built a farm in Tuftonboro and lived there for well over a decade. In James' spare time and retirement, he enjoyed, beekeeping, sailing, woodworking, haying his fields, and tending to an apple orchard that he planted himself. he enjoyed baking, gardening, flowers, and was a man of great knowledge in many subjects.

Tall of stature, quiet but intimidating many would say....

Without a doubt, what surpassed all of that was his love for his family, his grandchildren in particular and his dogs Tinker, Bee Bee, Sheena, "one eyed" Max and finally Bridget!

Packy (James) will truly be missed, but forever loved and remembered.

“ Our condolences to you all. I first remember meeting Packy on Brighton Beach Memoirs. To be honest, I found him quite an imposing figure. One day I wasn't working but brought my kids in - they were about 3 & 5 at the time. Packy got a big grin on his face, got down on the floor and started playing with them. My opinion of him changed after that and I'll always remember that day. God bless him and may he rest in peace. Joni
