“ Dear daddy. To suddenly lose you like this is heart wrenching. Your love, dedication and self sacrifice for me and my children will never be forgotten.

Your love always unconditional.

You raised your children well. Taught us all independence and compassion.

You could not have chosen a better mother for us.

I will miss your laughter, your charm and hope that you will be here in spirit guiding your loved ones until we all meet again in heaven.

I love you daddy and I thank you for your love and wisdom.

“ Jim was not only a leader in engineering, he led the industry in designing best practices for regulated drug and device facilities. He also believed that knowledge needed to be kept current and passed along to others so that all could benefit from those best practices he helped develop.

“ My father was a super intelligent, witty and super funny guy. He had six rambunctious kids and we were seriously rambunctious. Every year we would pack into the van and go to Seaside Heights and stay at the El Conquistador. One particular year the Brady Bunch had an episode where Bobby kept saying s'aright s'ok. It kind of stuck with us kids. As Dad drove, us kids kept saying this to each other. All of a sudden Dad yells enough, I don't want to hear that phrase anymore for the rest of the trip. One of my siblings said sorry Dad. He turned around and said S'aright s'ok but no more. We all cracked up.
