“ I considered Mr. Wheeler as my mentor for some 20 years. I first met him in my early years in college. I have always considered him to be the most kind and decent man I have known. His example and his words of wisdom have lived with me for many years. I have always consider him to be an example of a real man. Of the kind of man I could become. I am sure he helped man in his own special ways.

May God have mercy on him and save his soul.

“Pierce was my neighbor for nearly 2 decades. He was a dear sweet gentle man. We met when our tree limb fell on his home. He was never rattled. Instead kindness was his greatest attribute. We would walk together as he recuperated from surgery. He loved my dogs and always addressed them. I witnessed the extraordinary bond he and his wife Charlotte had
Just before I moved away, he showed me a bat house across the street that I never notice in the decades I lived there. He had been in ill health. I worried, he would pass. So sad to hear, but such a gift to have known him.

Like karen my wife i was blessed to know pierce for some 20 years before we sold and moved away. He was a kind man something rare these days no was not in his vocabulary he was also gentle another trait rare. His health was failing before we left and was concerned. He was Charlotte's yin while she was his yang just a lovely couple. I shall miss him but i know in my heart he is in god's hand.

For the some 20 that I knew him I always referred to him as Mr. Wheeler. He was like a mentor for me back when I entered college and for many years there after. He was the most kind and decent man I have ever know. His words of advise and wisdom still live with me many years later to this day. I remember him as always being available for others. His calm steady and wise pretense was always reassuring and for me he was a living example of what a real man is, of the kind of man I could become. I am sure he helped many in his own special ways. He will be missed. May God save his soul.
