“ So many memories of my former father-in-law. One wintry weekend, Bob was driving the family car with Doris and Warren to pick me up and drive Warren and me to a party. Thanks to a patch of black ice, while thankfully the injuries weren't too serious, they ended up instead at Englewood Hospital. While waiting to be treated, Bob turned to Warren who was only months from his license and possession of the now demolished car and said 'I told you to take care that car!'

There was also Bob's infamous never ending bowl of oatmeal at Winter Clove – additional milk and maple syrup after every few spoonfuls kept that bowl full for quite a long time. He was blessed to have a long and wonderful life, and will be missed.
